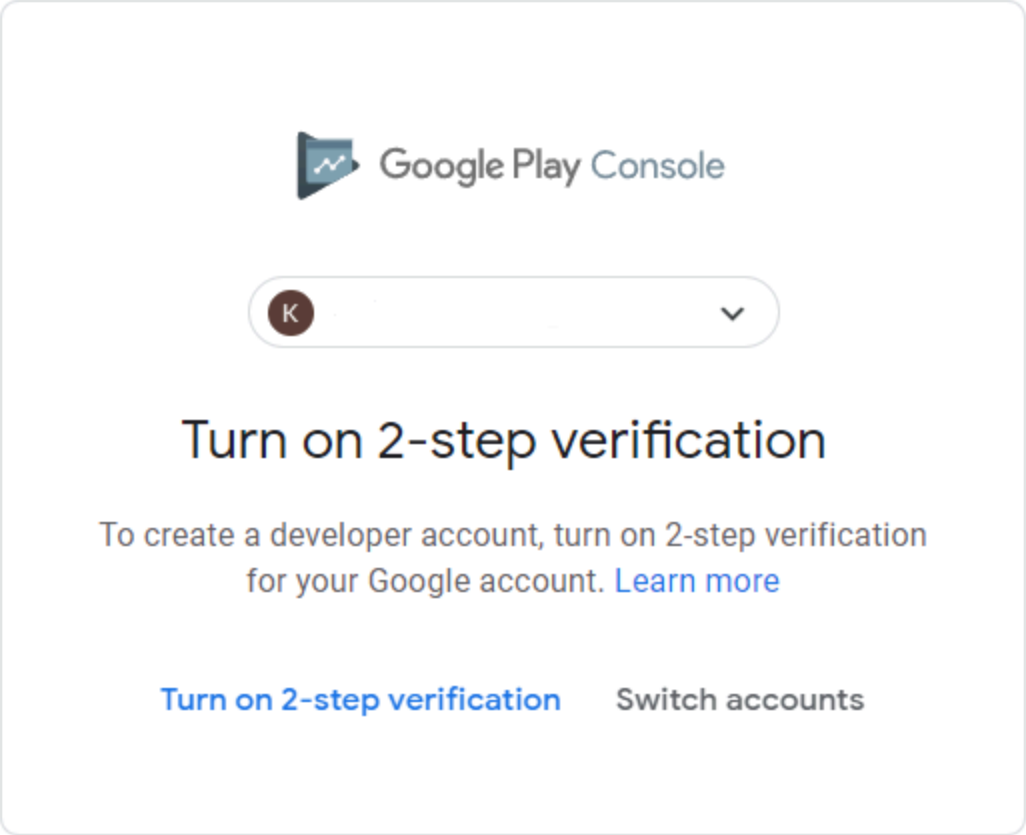
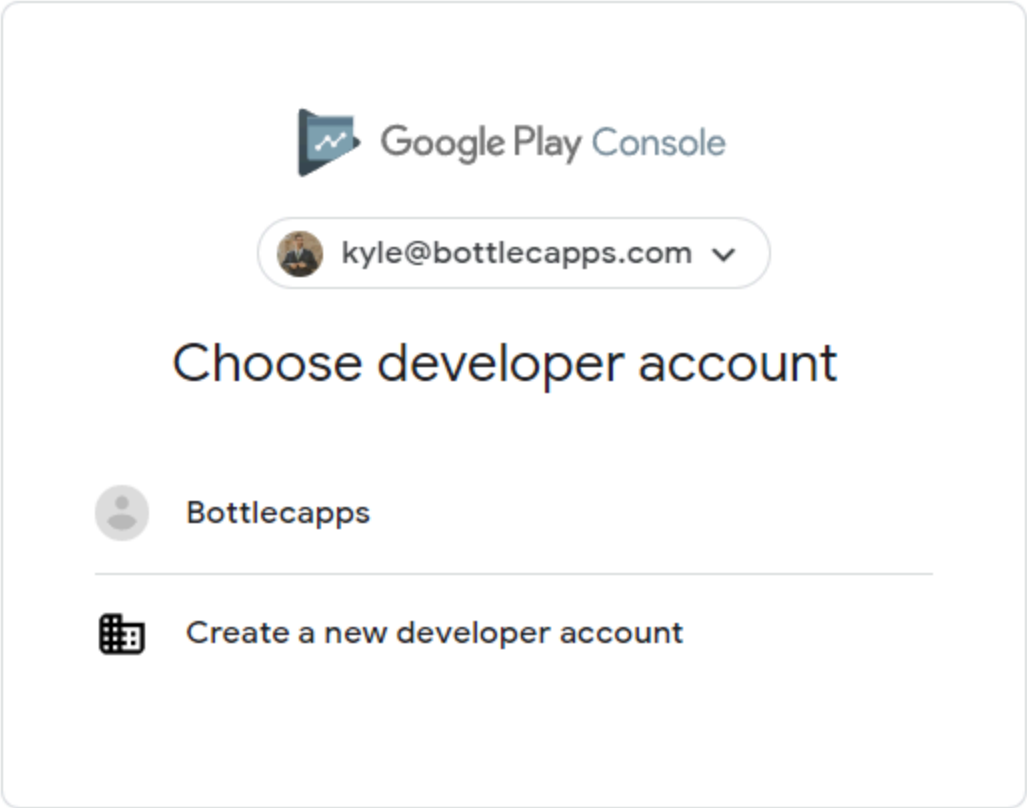
Google Developer Enrollment

You'll need a Gmail account for this step, so if you don't have one at this time, please make one then continue with the steps below.

Go to PLAY.GOOGLE.COM/CONSOLE

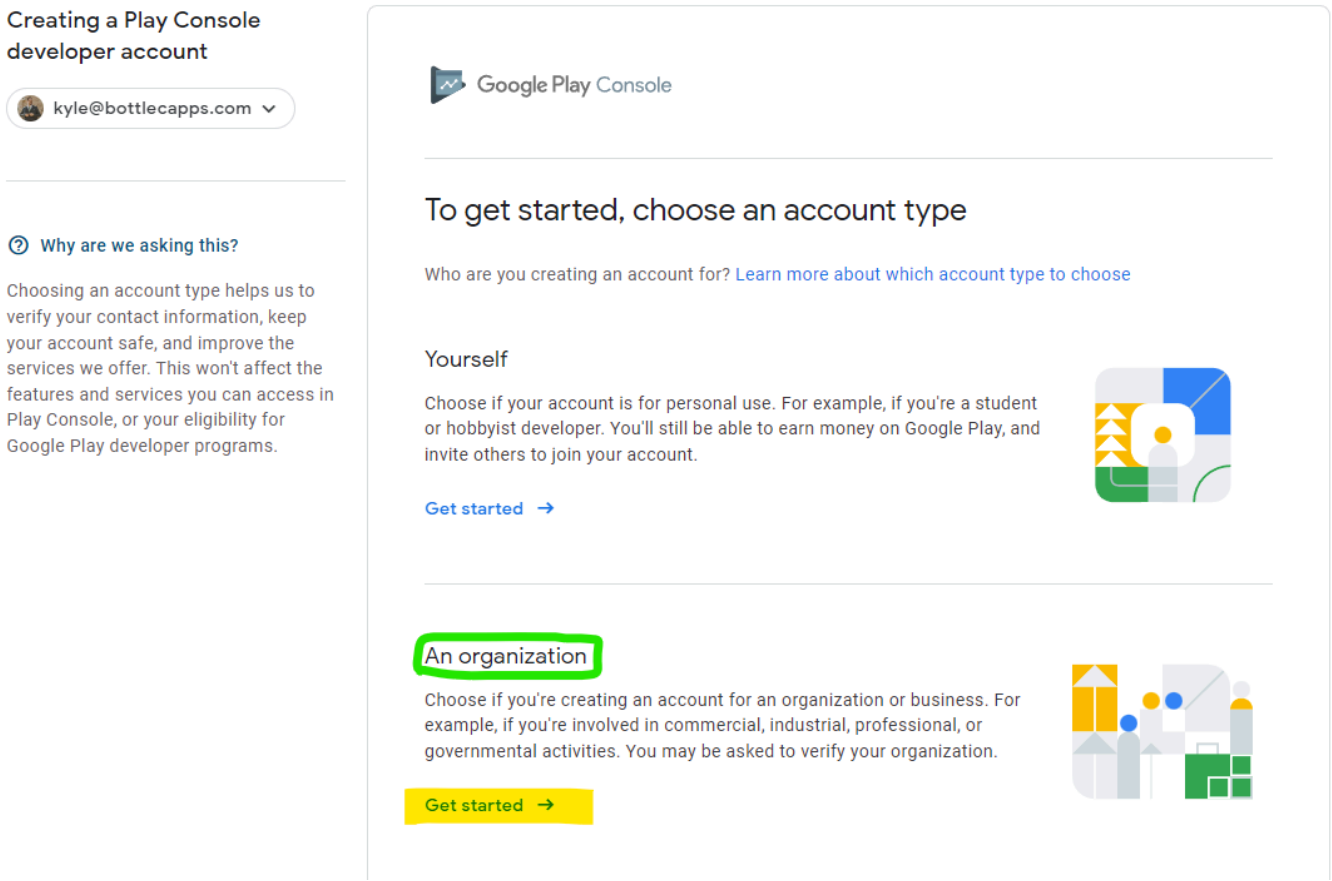




If you're signed into Google, already you should come to a page that looks like one of the above images.

If you're asked to turn on 2-Step Verification, please do that. It is required to move forward.

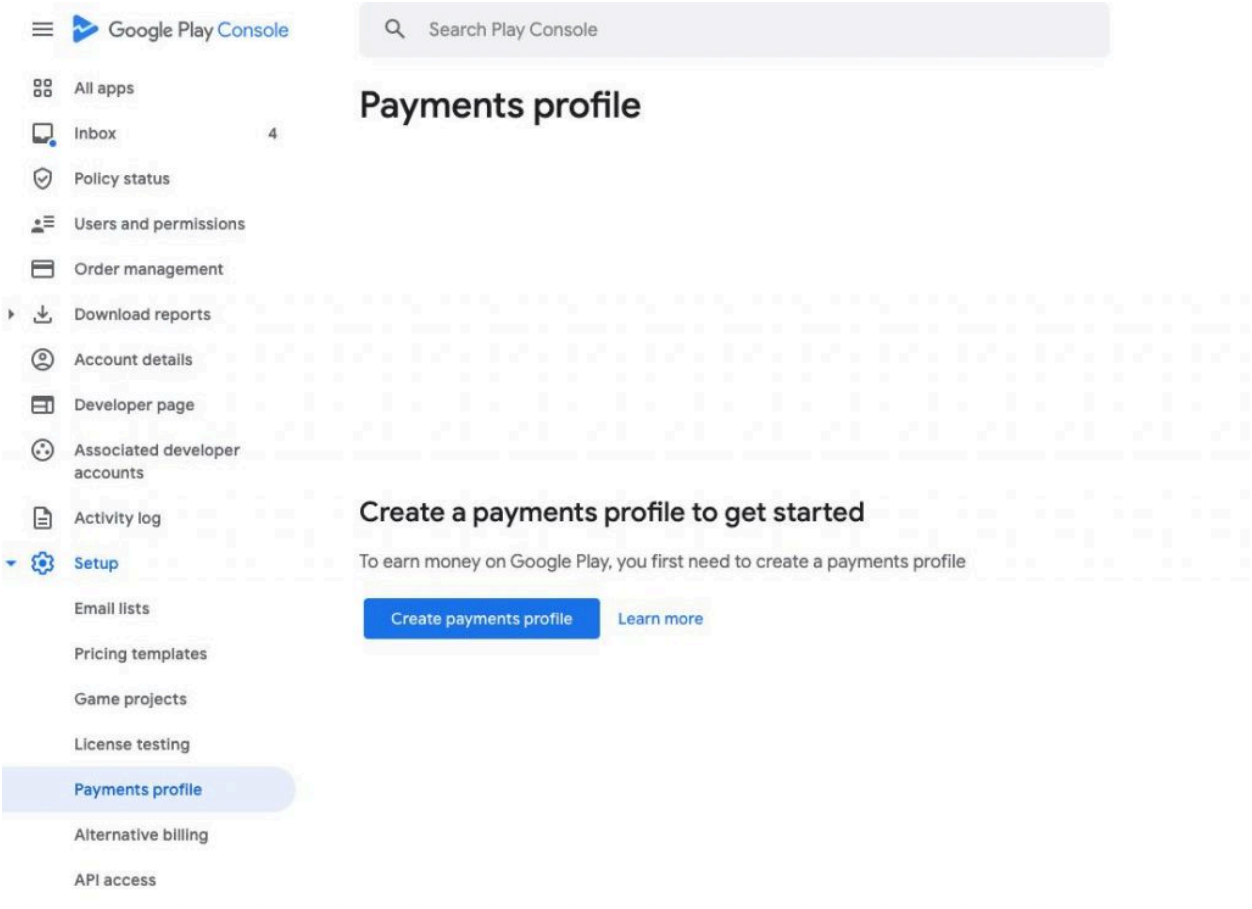
The following screen asks you to select an account type. Please select "Organization."



Select "Get Started"

The next few steps will ask you a list of questions about your business and your history using Google Play.

Select “Create Payments Profile” on this next step. You’ll need to locate your DUNS number for this phase of the enrollment.



When entering your phone number at every step of this process, make sure to add +1 in the beginning. Do not add any parenthesis or hyphens in the number.

Why are we asking this?

Your Play Console and Android experience

Providing this information helps us to better understand the Google Play developer community. Your answer won't affect the features and services you can access in Play Console.

Other accounts you've used

Some developers use multiple accounts to try and circumvent Google Play policies. To keep Google Play safe, you should declare any other accounts that you use to access Play Console. Providing this information helps us to verify your identity, and may reduce the number of verifications you need to complete.

Google Play Console

About you

You should answer these questions from your personal perspective, as the individual creating this account

Your Play Console and Android experience

Tell us about your previous experience with Play Console and Android. This is only visible to you.

For example, tell us about:

- any experience using Play Console
- any apps that you've built, managed, or published
- any Android development experience

You can include links to supporting information.
